

SEDATIV

The SEDATIV band is what most would simply name, otherwise. Due to the style of the music they are composing and the approach to the live performance, SEDATIV is located on a niche segment that is hard to define in terms of musical genre. Mostly the band scores in the electronic area, breakbeat self-defining electrofusion.

SEDATIV was formed on April 10, 2004 and began to tackle ethno rock alternately following a route that materialized in approximately 60 live appearances

After a pause of about 9 years, SEDATIV returns in 2016 with alternate rock inflections, hip-hop, drum'n bass, trip-hop and break beat elements, with a unique sound recipe

Starting with October, 2020, Sedativ released a double album "Chaotic" / "Narcotic" marking the official debut on the international music scene. Recordings were mixed and mastered by Sedativ with famous sound engineers such as: Neil McLellan (The Prodigy), Miles Showel (Underworld, Disclosure, Faithless), Chris Bolster (Foo Fighters, Maroon 5) and Jon Burton (The Prodigy).
